Canaccord Genuity Dynamic Fund - CHF Manager's commentary

Performance Overview

The Canaccord Genuity Dynamic Fund (CHF I Class) gained +1.77% in October compared with the Morningstar CHF Moderate Allocation peer group's +1.43%. Year-to-date, the fund is up +8.76%, compared with the benchmark return of +5.01%. Fund assets under management (AuM) has now risen to GBP 176 million.

Asset Allocation

Equities (46%) – Exposure was modestly increased over the month. New positions: Philip Morris International, Ryanair and Shopify. Exited: Relx, Honeywell, Rheinmetall and Arcelor Mittal. Equities contributed 158 basis points (bps) to performance, led by Healthcare, Information Technology and Financials, while Industrials detracted.

Fixed Income (48%) – Duration remains under three years, with a portfolio yield of 4.11% and predominantly A+/A credit quality, alongside selected inflation-linked holdings. Bonds contributed 61 bps, supported by declining UK yields and steady credit spreads.

Gold (5%) – Continued demand for safe-haven assets contributed 33 bps, though Gold remained well off its intra-month peak.

Cash (1%) – The fund remains close to fully invested, preferring short-dated UK Treasury Bills ahead of the Autumn Statement.

Fixed Interest

US 10-year Treasury yields declined marginally to 4.08%, though the near-term policy outlook remains unclear due to the temporary US data blackout. UK Gilts significantly outperformed, with 10-year yields falling to 4.41% and 2-year yields to 3.77%, underpinned by growing confidence that the UK is experiencing one of the strongest disinflation trends in the G10. Headline inflation, services inflation and wage growth all surprised to the downside relative to Bank of England (BoE) expectations, while unemployment has edged higher and Gross Domestic Product (GDP) momentum has softened.

The gilt market also welcomed signals that the UK Chancellor's Autumn Statement will introduce around £30bn of fiscal consolidation, largely through tax rises rather than spending cuts. While supportive of fiscal sustainability, this tightening is likely to weigh on growth, increasing the likelihood of a Bank of England (BoE) rate cut in December and further easing through 2026, implying a terminal base rate closer to 3%. Should the UK's fiscal risk premium continue to narrow versus peers, gilts should remain supported. Goldman Sachs forecasts 10-year gilt yields of 4.25% by year-end and 4.00% in 2026.

Equities

Global equities continued to move higher, with the MSCI World Index gaining +1.91%. Q3 earnings highlighted ongoing strength within Technology, particularly in cloud infrastructure and digital advertising. Google and Amazon reported accelerating cloud revenue growth, while Microsoft maintained steady momentum. Artificial Intelligence (AI)-driven improvements in targeted advertising contributed to strong results from Google and Meta. Semiconductor and networking supply remains tight, reinforcing visibility into continued elevated AI-related capital expenditure.

Mega-cap technology companies collectively spent over US$60bn in capital expenditure (capex) during the quarter. While focus in 2026 will increasingly shift to returns on invested capital and scalability, in most cases, margins remain resilient given their ability to grow earnings faster than revenues. One exception to this would appear to be Meta, where topline growth continues to impress, but given the sheer scale of capex planned for next year, it has become more of a 'show me' story.

Currencies

The US dollar Index strengthened +2.08% after the Federal Reserve pushed back against expectations of near-term rate cuts. Sterling weakened 3% against the US dollar and 1.35% against a broader currency basket, mainly due to expectations for lower UK interest rates discussed above.

Commodities

Gold rose 3% to US$4,000, though well below its intra-month peak of US$4,382, as a positioning led correction got underway. Looking ahead, gold remains supported by ongoing central bank and Exchange Traded Fund (ETF) demand, which is expected to propel the price higher into next year. Goldman Sachs maintains a 2026 target of US$4,900. Brent crude declined -1.3% to US$64.77, with structurally elevated supply expected to cap prices into next year despite near term upward pressure from the impact of US sanctions on Russian producers.

Summary

- Fund performance remains ahead of the benchmark year-to-date, supported by balanced allocation.
- UK bond markets strengthened as disinflation and fiscal consolidation improved credibility.
- Equity gains continue to be driven by strong technology earnings and AI-related demand.
- Currency movements reflected diverging monetary policy expectations between the US and UK.
- Gold remains a resilient portfolio hedge amid persistent geopolitical and macro uncertainty.
